ASSEMBLY INSTRUCTIONS

WARNING: Shut off air supply and drain residual pressure before attempting to service any part of the system!

Assemble components as shown, using appropriate fittings and noting airflow direction of each component.

CAUTION: Do not over torque or use Teflon tape when installing nipples or bushings into filter housings. Use thread paste sealant and apply minimum torque to achieve a leak-free fit.

The brackets are designed to fit with a minimum of space over the brass nipples and bushings. Before installing bracket, thread the locknut as far as possible onto the brass fitting, slide the bracket into place, install the fitting into the component and then back off the locknut for a tight fit.

Once unit is assembled and installed, pressurize slowly and check for leaks.

Refer to original instructions of operation, service, maintenance and repair of the individual system components. Contact Motor Guard for replacement instructions.
